Barcode Nomenclature

Nomenclature Name Default Nomenclature

UPC/EAN Conversion Always

Barcode Nomenclatures define how barcodes are recognized and categorized. When a barcode is scanned it is associated to the first rule with a matching pattern. The pattern syntax is that of regular expression, and a barcode is matched if the regular expression matches a prefix of the barcode.

Patterns can also define how numerical values, such as weight or price, can be encoded into the barcode. They are indicated by `{NNN}` where the N's define where the number's digits are encoded. Floats are also supported with the decimals indicated with D's, such as `{NNNDD}`. In these cases, the barcode field on the associated records must show these digits as zeroes.

Rule Name	Type	Encoding	Barcode Pattern
Price Barcodes 2 Decimals	Priced Product	EAN-13	23.....{NNNDD}
Discount Barcodes	Discounted Product	Any	22{NN}
Weight Barcodes 3 Decimals	Weighted Product	EAN-13	21.....{NNDDD}
Customer Barcodes	Client	Any	042
Cashier Barcodes	Cashier	Any	041
Location barcodes	Location	Any	414
Package barcodes	Package	Any	PACK
Lot barcodes	Lot	Any	10
Product Barcodes	Unit Product	Any	.*
